ELLIS' IRON BITTERS.
Having used your Iron Bitters in my practice, I can testify to its superior tonic properties for invigorating the appetite and promoting digestion. I can unhesitatingly recommend it in cases of general debility, and dyspepsia, and in conditions of the system requiring the use of a ferruginous tonic. It agrees with me, I recommend it to all.
Yours, Respectfully,

Enforcement of the Law.

The Riverside Echo takes up and makes a great ado about several instances of drunkenness which have come under its notice, remarking, "And yet the Whig and most of our Republican cotemporaries think we have law enough, and need no extra police to enforce it." With the remarkably blind assurance that has characterized the Echo's endeavor to give strength to the Hichborn party, as usual, it makes these statements without the least foundation in truth. In reference to the liquor law, all we have ever said was that the most sanguine friends of prohibition ask no additional regulations or penalties, and that therefore the only requisite is its enforcement. In reference to an extra police, or a State constabulatory,—the Whig has never said there was no necessity for it. We have not intentionally discouraged such legislation in that direction as the temperance organizations seemed to demand. We rather have taken the ground since that question came up last winter in favor of considering so far as possible the opinions of those who claimed that our present machinery is insufficient to enforce the law. The Riverside Echo might have said with truth, had the truth satisfied its purpose, that the Whig thinks that having a law which is satisfactory to the most extreme classes of temperance men, and having officers who are ample for all other ordinary purposes, it is not best to sacrifice even these in the mad attempt to reach impossibilities. We believe in using that which we have rather than attempting to use that which it is impossible to obtain, and the failure in which would cause a reaction that would require many years to recover.

We have no quarrel with the temperance men of the State; they are, nearly all Republicans, and another year they who now through any motive follow the fortunes of Mr. Hichborn, will be found shoulder to shoulder with us in the common cause.

Let us plainly state for the benefit of the Echo and the Hichborn party in general wherein we find they fail to do their duty as temperance men. We have sufficient law, as they admit, and we have officers who can enforce it with proper coöperation and effort on the part of the friends of prohibition. This being true, all endeavors should be directed to the one purpose of practical reform thus offered. Mr. Jones, the Massachusetts State Constable, no doubt speaks sincerely when he says that he seizes all the open bars that come to his knowledge, and that if any are still open, he will attend to them upon information. It should be borne in mind that all misdemeanors are most industriously concealed from officers, and that particularly in this law the coöperation of outsiders is necessary to its complete success. Upon proper information, it is the duty of the officers to search and seize liquors supposed to be for sale. Who shall inform if not the men who have the interest of the cause at heart? Every member of a lodge is an aid to the police in this respect, and there are many ways in which they may assist the course of justice. Do the Hichborn men do their whole duty, while regretting the failure of others? Do they do what is in their power to enforce the law and to abate the sale of liquor? We believe they neglect this duty for the attractive chase for political influence. They are wasting months of valuable time and many thousands of dollars to conduct a hopeless and weakening political canvass, which might be expended with powerful effect in practical efforts to advance their cause. They are fighting their own friends when they should be more economically, and easily, and effectually fighting the common enemy. They are wasting their influence for sensitive gratification when the field is so bountiful of occasions upon which to expend it profitably. It can no longer be denied that the most effectual means of aiding the temperance cause would be an abandonment of the Hichborn movement and a united determination to enforce the regulations we have already at command. We differ with the new party chiefly in that it proposes and promises nothing, save that which is dangerous both to temperance and Republicanism.

The Portland Press, following our correspondent "Justice", is out with an argument in favor of conferring political rights upon the two tribes of Indians in this State, located at Oldtown and Perry, and numbering some eight hundred. It would certainly be carrying out the policy of Gen. Grant, who believes in civilizing the red men of the West, to whom in point of social amenities and intelligence the Indians of this State are much superior. Many of them made good soldiers, and taking the view of Gen. Sherman, that to whomsoever we give the musket we must also allow the ballot, it would seem simple justice to confer upon them the full privileges of citizenship. The Press concludes:

"We respectfully suggest that Gov. Chamberlain cause the necessary inquiries to be made, as to the population, number under twenty-one, number of males and of females of each tribe of Indians, with a statement of how many of each occupy lands in a settled habitation, as to the number of schools and how they are taught and maintained, as to the modes of internal government and elections, as to the real and other property owned by or held in trust for them, with the management, and income from property, and grants of money, and compensation to agents, delegates, teachers, or for other purposes annually expended for their benefit, and that the results of such inquiries be embodied in his next annual message, with a recommendation of the legislation herein suggested."

Some of the newspapers seem disposed to start the Senatorial contest for '71. The Jeffersonian walked into Senator Fessenden for traveling down east, interpreting his trip to be an electioneering one. What a misfortune it is to be great! He can't travel for pleasure! The Lewiston Journal follows up the attack. The Bath Times and the Portland Press and Advertiser come to the rescue, and the wrangle promises to be lively. We don't propose to offer any advice in this matter, but would mildly suggest that there is a time for everything, and that it would seem as well to postpone this contest for a year. We have a few other little questions of interest to settle meanwhile.

Bucksport Versus Winterport.

To the Editor of the Daily Whig:

Your correspondent "B." whose communication appears in your columns of last Saturday, propounds this question:

"Shall we have a railroad to Winterport, and pay for it—say two or three hundred thousand dollars—or will you take as a gift one from Bucksport one third larger, and a thousand times better so far as regards the interest of Bangor?"

Admitting your correspondent that it is not always profitable to take everything that is offered you as a gift even, and that from time immemorial—even from the days when the Greeks presented to the Trojans that magnificent horse whose belly was full of armed men—gifts have been open to grave suspicions, it would inquire, if it would not be well for Bangor to examine well into the condition of this railroad gift before opening her gates to receive it or before permitting [illegible] to be distracted from a project the early completion of which even, at a cost of two or three hundred thousand dollars, is of great importance to Bangor?

Grant that the town of Bucksport, the enterprise and generosity of whose business men is notorious, will construct a railroad to Brewer, of what benefit, under any circumstances, can that road be to Bangor without a bridge across the Penobscot? In order to reach tide water must not all the freight brought into Bangor by the E. & N. A. and Piscataquis Railroads be trans shipped at Bangor or trucked across the toll bridge to the Brewer depot?

There is not an inhabitant of Bangor who does not know that a railroad from Bucksport to Brewer would be useless to Bangor without a bridge across the Penobscot. Does Bucksport propose to build that bridge?—Not at all. If the bridge is built Bangor must construct it, and at what cost? To be at all convenient it must be constructed below the Toll Bridge, and a bridge below that point could not be built for less than $500,000, or nearly three times the amount that Bangor is called upon to loan her credit to construct a railroad to Winterport. I here say nothing of the great detriment such a bridge would be to the navigation of our city.

If "B." were candid, then, he would propound his question in this form: Shall Bangor give outright $500,000 to bridge the Penobscot in order that she may reach tide water and a very poor port, at Bucksport, eighteen miles distant, or shall she loan her credit for but $180,000, perfectly secured by mortgage, for a road to Winterport, a most excellent harbor, but twelve miles distant?

The need of Bangor for railroad communication with a winter port is pressing and immediate. In a few months the Piscataquis road will begin to pour into Bangor its freights of ship timber, short lumber, slate, iron and agricultural products—all demanding a winter outlet to the sea. The European and North American will swell the volume immensely. Let the people of Bangor in October next vote the credit of the city for but $180,000, and the railroad to Winterport will be completed and in running order by one year from next December.

Until Bangor shall draw from her treasury a half million of dollars and construct a bridge across the Penobscot, she can have no railroad communication with a winter port at Bucksport. With the heavy burden of taxation now resting upon her citizens, can Bangor afford to expend that sum this year, or at any time during the next six years?

The shore road connecting Bangor with Rockland and so with the West is to be built. The Bucksport movement can only retard it; it cannot prevent it. Soon the railroad from Bangor to Halifax will be open, and soon the great Trans-Atlantic travel will be passing over it; then our great competing railroad interests west of Portland, reaching away to the Pacific coast, that are anxious to secure their proportion of this travel and traffic through a narrow gauge road, passing through the populous and wealthy towns that line the western banks of the Penobscot. "B." inquires who is to build this other road from Winterport to Belfast? Leaving out of the account this great western, narrow gauge interest, to which I have just alluded, if Bucksport, with a valuation of $975,000, can build a road to Brewer, 18 miles in length, cannot Searsport, Stockton, Prospect and Frankfort, with a united valuation of $1,563,000, construct a road from Winterport to Belfast, a distance of 20 miles? Let the road from Bangor to Winterport be constructed, and the intervening links between Winterport and Rockland will be built within two years, without any aid from Bangor.

In conclusion, "B." emphatically affirms that we don't want any more sluice-ways to Portland and Boston, for the trade and products of the eastern and northern portions of Maine. We beg "B.'s" pardon,—this shore line sluice-way is just what Bangor does want. We want this very "sluice way" to sluice all the vast products which will soon be pouring in upon us over the Piscataquis and E. & N. A. R. railroads, and which we cannot consume ourselves, into the great and small markets which lie west of us. We want this very sluice-way to sluice our ship-timber into all the ship yards between Bangor and Portland,—we want it in the winter season to sluice our lumber to Winterport,—we want it to sluice our merchants and traders to Portland, on their way to Boston and New York, at less exorbitant fares than they now have to pay the Maine Central, in the winter season,—we want it to sluice the thousands of cords of slabs and edgings from our mills, for which there is now no market, right down before the lime kilns of Camden and Rockland.

In another communication we hope to be able to show to the liberal citizens of Bucksport that it will be for the interest of that town to construct a road directly east to Ellsworth and the coast towns of Washington county, through a region of country which wants to buy nothing of Bangor, and which has nothing to sell that Bangor wants, and whose passenger traffic can be much better accommodated by crossing the river at Bucksport than to travel 20 miles to Bangor to reach a western connection, thus affording to Bucksport an ample field for the exercise of their wonted generosity and for the expenditure of their surplus capital.

W.

HOMŒOPATHY IN AMERICA. In the year 1825 the first Homœopathic Physician in America settled in New York. In 1828 there were but two in the United States, and in 1836 there were fifty-seven. There are now over four thousand. In 1833 Dr. C. Herring relinquished the pursuit of Zoology, which he had long cultivated in South America, under the auspices of the King of Saxony, and commenced the practice of medicine in Philadelphia. Two years later he and others established the Academy of Medicine at Allentown, Pa., the first Homœopathic school in the world. Now in his old age, we find this venerable physician and distinguished scientist at the head of the leading Homœopathic College in the country, the Hahnemann Medical College, of Philadelphia, an institution which aims to excel in giving a thorough medical and scientific education to its students, and thus it happens that the first teacher of Homœopathy in America is now at the head of its ablest school.—New York (Weekly) Tribune.

The Virginia papers take the same view of the Tennessee election as they did of that in their own State, viz: that it was not a Democratic victory and cannot be claimed as such. The Richmond Whig is evidently disposed in this, as in the election in its own State, to abandon the old party name. In its last issue that paper says:

"The victory just achieved in Tennessee by the liberal Republicans, with the aid of the great body of Conservatives, is claimed as a Democratic triumph by the Democratic newspapers. The proscriptive radical journals interpret it in the same way. This is all nonsense. The ticket was not Democratic, and the policy it represented was liberal Republicanism. In like manner the assumption that it is an administration defeat is unfounded in fact."

We see by the last Dexter Gazette that it has hoisted the name of N. G. Hichborn, as candidate for Governor; and contains a long editorial article against Gov. Chamberlain. How long since has the Gazette become a political paper? We can quote a number of columns devoted to that department. We always thought that it was neutral in politics. You need not be alarmed, Gov. Chamberlain will be reelected by a handsome majority. Mark our words.

We understand that Messrs. Robbins & Gallison, formerly our apprentices, have purchased the above establishment, and will take charge of it in two or three weeks. They are both good Republicans and will surely change its present political course. So this third party advocate is very short-lived.—[Dover Observer.

INDIAN AFFAIRS. Reports from the Indian country are all favorable, for the Commissioner Parker sees no reason for disturbance anywhere this fall. The policy of collecting Indians on reservations is being pushed, and unexpectedly large numbers of persons are coming in and showing a disposition to adopt the habits of civilized life. The system of distributing annuity goods at large towns, which led to lawlessness, and ended in a transfer of most of the goods to white traders and sharpers, at nominal prices, has been broken up; and distribution are now generally made on the reservations, access to which is denied to traders. This plan is found to work a great deal better than the old one did.

We have received a letter from our Lubec correspondent, enclosing one from a person in Bangor, signing himself D. G. W. C. T. The letter is directed to the W. C. T. and W. S., or Deputy, of [illegible] Lodge, stating that he had seen an article in the Bangor Whig, copied from the Machias Republican, as follows: "Third party men are very scarce in this vicinity. Out of a Lodge membership of over two hundred and fifty at the present time, not a Hichborn man is to be found." And adds, "our place was nevermore free from rum, than at the present time." The writer then asks them to do him the favor to tell him immediately, "if these things are so?" evidently fearing they were.

Our Lubec correspondent asks us to say that every word of the statement alluded to above, is correct in every particular. And that the only person who has been known to speak in favor of a third party, is a Democrat of the meanest kind. We will add, that so far as we know anything about Washington County, the same holds nearly true in its length and breadth. Good Templars generally, have no notion of going back on their professions, and giving aid and comfort to the enemy.—[Machias Republican.

The New York Citizen (Democratic) has come to the following sensible conclusions:

"We hold that the Democracy, to succeed, must discard old issues and bring itself fairly up to the times. It is useless to quarrel over questions that the force of circumstances has settled; we cannot re-enslave the negro if we would; our Southern brethren placed a whip in the hands of our enemies to drive us naked through the world; and rebel States of their own option went out of the union, and they had to be brought back by military despotism, or they never would have come back at all. It was to the military tyrannies of Sherman, the violence of Sheridan, the impositions of Hancock, and the persistencies of Grant that we owe the restoration of the Union on any terms."

The Nashville Press, a Senter organ, does not take kindly to Andrew Johnson for United States Senator, and thus speaks of the ex President:

"There is not the smallest danger of Mr. Johnson ever being sent again to the National Senate from this State. His public career is at an end forever, as he will himself ascertain in a few weeks. The people of Tennessee are not yet mad enough to feel interested in needlessly getting up hostile relations between themselves and those at present in power in Washington city."

Congressman Negley of the Pittsburg district is reported as having recently been in conference with Senator Cameron, Governor Geary, and many other leading Pennsylvania politicians. He says the feeling is good, and that there is no disaffection, though there is apathy on both sides. It is arranged that an active canvass shall begin about the 1st of September.

Andrew Johnson continues, of course, to raid against Congress. In his last speech he declared that "rather than see their wicked rule perpetuated, he would much prefer to be the subject of some wise and just prince or emperor."

The N. Y. Tribune says—"The whisky-dealers pay a proper compliment to Commissioner Delano when they declared that he could collect a tax of $2 on whisky, though nobody could do it before him; nevertheless, we hope he will not try the experiment. The tax is very well as it stands, and the effort to have it increased comes from a suspicious quarter. It will be just as well for Government not to become a tool of the liquor speculators."

FROM WASHINGTON.

WASHINGTON, Aug. 10.

The Cabinet meeting adjourned at 8 p.m. Nothing has transpired concerning the subjects discussed, for which there is the slightest official authority.

Commodore Augustus L. Case has been ordered to perform the duties of Chief of the Bureau of navigation during the absence of Commodore James Alden, and Commodore M. Smith will perform the duties of Secretary of the Navy, during the absence of Mr Robeson.

Rear Admiral Dahlgrem, who was recently appointed to the command of the Washington Navy Yard, entered upon his duties today, relieving Admiral Poor, who will take command of the North Atlantic Squadron.

President Grant will leave Washington to-morrow night, for New York, accompanied by Gen. Horace Porter. He will afterwards make a short trip to Pennsylvania, in response to an invitation from a friend.

At noon to-morrow, Senor Mariscalo, Minister from Alaska, will present his credentials, and be received by the President.

NEW YORK, August 10.

Last evening after the adjournment of the examination of John H Pratt, the alleged Texan rioter and murderer, a squad of United States soldiers took the prisoner from Marshal Barlow, hurried him into a boat, and conveyed him to Fort Schuyler, where he was delivered into the charge of Major Taylor.

This summary proceeding was undoubtedly prompted by an apprehension that Judge McCunn would render a decision liberating the prisoner, on the grounds put forward by his counsel, (Pryor and Cochrane,) that he has not been guilty of any offence against the U S.

The case of Kiff versus the Suspension Bridge and the New England and Erie company, came up again today.

The principal charge against the directors is, that they have been trying to sell out to another company.

After a desultory discussion between the counsel on motion of Edwin James a referee was appointed to take the testimony of the president and other officers of the company.

The case was adjourned until Monday next.

The Plate Printers strike continues. The men are so much encouraged by the accounts from the Washington plate printers that they say they will hold out until the National Bank Co will be forced to yield.

The company are now engaged in printing the new fractional currency and cannot get hands to finish the work within the stated time, therefore the strikers are very confident of success.

President Grant will make a pleasure tour over the Erie railroad, leaving this city Friday morning, 13th inst.

CABLE NEWS.

London, Aug. 10. The Times, in an article on the relations between Spain and Cuba, says:

"Between the military punctilio of the former, and patriotic fanaticism of the latter, the interests of both are likely to suffer; especially when the questions at issue should be brought under the control of sound reason and their discussion kept free from the influences of impulse and passion.

"If it can be proved that the separation of the colony from the mother country is an unavoidable and not remote contingency, it seems the height of madness to carry on hostilities fraught with ruin to either side."

London, Aug 10. James Milliken, of Philadelphia, has obtained Lord Clarendon's sanction for instructions to be issued by the Admiral to the British fleet in the waters of China to corporate with the Asiatic squadron of the United States in laying a cable along the coast of China.

This is an American enterprise, in which some English capitalists have also invested.

Marine Disaster

ST JOHN, N F., Aug. 10.

The steamer Germania went ashore Saturday morning at 5 o'clock on the rocks in Seal's Cove, Trepassey Bay.

A dense fog prevailed at the time, which broke away almost immediately after the vessel struck. The passengers has barely time to save their lives. A heavy sea was running at the time.

The government has dispatched a tug to render assistance

A French gunboat has just arrived here with 200 of the Germania's passengers. All are well.

Steamer Cleopatra is a total wreck. She struck on the rocks in Trepassey Bay on Saturday evening last about 4 miles from the steamer Germania. The passengers and crew are all saved and arrived here in open boats today.

Another Submarine Cable.

MONTREAL, Aug. 10.

Hon. John Young has just returned from England, and is said to have been successful in starting a company in Copenhagen to lay a submarine cable from Northern Europe to America via the Faroe Islands, Iceland and Greenland.

St. Louis Items.

ST LOUIS, Aug 10.

A train of 17 freight cars was completely smashed up on the Northern Missouri railroad ten miles west of Moberly on Sunday. Loss estimated at from 25 to 30,000 dollars.

An Omaha dispatch of yesterday says the attachment suit of Davis and associate, against the contractors of the Union Pacific Railroad, has been dissolved by Judge Lake and the property attached by the sheriff ordered to be released.

The suit will be continued in the District Court.

The President at Washington.

WASHINGTON, August 10.

The President and Secretary Fish arrived this morning.

The Postmaster General arrived last night.

Several visitors, including a few members of Congress, had interviews with the President this morning.

At the Cabinet meeting the Treasury was represented by Assistant Secretary Richardson and the Attorney General by assistant Field.

The present intention of the President is to leave Washington again for New York tomorrow.

Kentucky Election Returns.

LOUISVILLE, 9.

Returns from eighty counties in Kentucky give a total Democratic majority of 49,525. The Tower House consists of 81 Democrats and 5 Republicans.

New York Brokers in Trouble.

NEW YORK, August 10.

The Wall street brokers were sentenced today by Judge Cardoza to fines ranging from $250 to $2,800 dollars each, and in two cases to imprisonment in State prison for five and ten days respectively.

Arrest.

CONCORD, Aug. 10.

A man named Palmer was arrested in Campton on suspicion of burning the bridges in that town.

He is an intemperate man and lived in a hut alone.

Circumstances are very strong against him.

Fire

CHICAGO, Aug. 10.

The picture manufactory of Taft & Co. on Canal street, was destroyed by fire this afternoon.

Loss, about $20,000. Partially insured. Other parties lost $10,000.

—The Portland Argus states that a couple of inebriates, while driving on the Ocean House road Friday afternoon, purposely collided with the carriage of Mrs Lemuel Cobb, upsetting it and thereby severely injuring Mrs Cobb. Fortunately her head struck on one of the cushions of the vehicle or she would most likely have been killed. She was taken up insensible, while the perpetrators of the outrage with a carousal laugh drove on. Mrs C's injuries, though considerable, are not considered dangerous.

AN ESCAPED PRISONER CAPTURED. We learn from the Portland Press that Frank W Bickford, who made a forcible escape from the county jail at Alfred on July 1st, and for whose apprehension a reward had been offered, was on Friday last arrested in a mowing field in the town of Lebanon, by R H Goding, Esq., Sheriff of York county, assisted by Mr Abijah Nason of Alfred, after a pretty desperate struggle. Young Bickford was engaged with others in mowing for his father at the time of his arrest. The Sheriff approached him under cover of a piece of woods, but was discovered in season to give Bickford the advantage of a start, which he quickly improved by drawing his scythe and running at the top of his speed. Soon finding his pursuers too swift for him, he halted and proposed to surrender; but on going up to him he snatched a revolver which the Sheriff had with him, and before it could be taken from him managed to discharge it within a few inches of Mr. Nason's head, at the same time making a desperate effort to get away. During the struggle the father of Bickford, now under bonds to appear at Court to answer to the charge of an assault with a dangerous weapon, attempted to interfere, and persisting, after being admonished, was effectually checked by a shot from the revolver of the sheriff, the ball taking effect in one of his legs. The prisoner was then secured, and promptly returned to his old quarters at the jail, there to await the action of the Supreme Judicial Court on the charge of burglary.

Winterport Railroad—Action of the Common Council.

BANGOR, August 9, 1869.

To the Editor of the Daily Whig:

Being about we noticed today for the first time, an article in the Whig of August 6th over the signature of T—in which, we think he seeks not only to censure the doings of the Common Council; but also to create in the mind of the people of Bangor a false impression, as to the order submitting the question of the Winterport Railroad loan bill to the legal voters of Bangor.

The order of July 12, referred to by him, was introduced into the Common Council, and after the reading of all the important sections of the loan bill, by the President, the question was discussed at length by the members of the Council, as well as by several prominent citizens at the meeting. After due consideration it passed that board by a vote of 14 yeas, to 1 nay, and the said order was sent up to the Board of Aldermen the same evening, and had a passage in concurrence, by a vote of 6 yeas, without a doubt or nay vote, as we were informed, at the adjournment.

The order did not reach the Board of Aldermen until late in the evening, whether read in that Board or not, we are not now able to state. But it may be considered very honorable on the part of that Board, (as stated by T) to rescind the order a [illegible] subsequently by a vote of one majority, particularly so when it is understood that T made several labored arguments, imploring the Board to do so on the ground that it would relieve the bonds of the Piscataquis Railroad now in the market.

T. seems to cast reproach on the President of the Council, and on all its members, while he acknowledges the haste with which he pushed the Board of Aldermen, and for which he claims now that the order should be received by the Council. It is well for some men to have a harp of a thousand strings.

When the order for rescinding came down to the Council, T came also, vacating his place in the upper Board for the express purpose which he had the right to do, but when we read in his article that Winterport furnished brains for Bangor, we cannot refrain from entertaining the idea, that not only Winterport may strive to furnish brains at large—but what a superabundance of outside brains, (brains from various quarters,) are lavishly tendered to guide the actions of the ignorant, bewildered members, comprising the Bangor City Council. Instead of going it blind, as has been stated, we are favored with winkers of every variety introduced and designed for the timid and those of us who are considered unreliable, brains spread out over so large a number of Councilmen, sometimes become thinish, the names designed for us to pull in cannot be satisfactorily adjusted upon us restive, but ignorant members. A competition ensues a cloud of dust arises, from which may be heard many voices, striving with much energy to get a pull in the right direction. Returning to the subject we will state, that pending the question for rescinding, the order, the President of the Common Council read carefully the loan bill again, so that all members present might fully understand all its features and conditions. Hours of discussion were participated in by many of the members, previous to putting the question which resulted in nays 22, yeas 3 or 4 at the most.

Thus the order stands—submitting the question to the people, the second day of October next, allowing sufficient time for voters to enlighten themselves of all the merits as well as objections to the charter and loan bill. The public may be assured that no undue or hasty manoeuvering has originated in the Common Council, official influence having been brought to bear to the contrary notwithstanding.

The question of Winterport Railroad came before the last City Government, as the present, and without going into its merits, or that of any other road, it is an undeniable fact that the question has been openly discussed, and conservatism and due consideration, has governed the members of the council in submitting the question to the people.

T. asks the pertinent question, "Are the people of Bangor willing to allow such things?"

The legal voters of Bangor can, and undoubtedly will, answer this question in due time. Meanwhile, it may be as well for T. to prove his assertions, and see that his own reputation in public matters be in keeping with his preaching to others.

D. A MEMBER FROM WARD 4.

Incomes have been returned and assessed in the city of Bangor, for the year, ending December 31, 1868, as follows:

	Income	In. Tax
[illegible]	[illegible]	[illegible]

The following is a copy of a circular from the Commissioner of Internal Revenue. It is additional evidence of the vigilance and fidelity of that able officer:

Treasury Department,
Office of Internal Revenue,
Washington, Aug. 6, 1869.

SIR—Instances have come to the notice of the Commissioner of Internal Revenue where Assessors and their Assistants instead of requiring parties in returning their incomes to specify as the law requires, their several sources of income, and a statement of their losses, if any, have accepted returns so general in their character as not to show the basis upon which they are made. This is wrong, and tends not only to the detriment of the public interests, but also to the disgrace and other injury of individuals.

In a case tried at a recent term of the U S Court, the return made by the defendant showed, that he had received as profits from the purchase and sale of real estate about twenty-five hundred dollars, when in fact as established by the profits derived from this source were nearly seven thousand dollars. But in his defence he proved satisfactorily to the jury, that his losses in fact reduced his actual income to the sum of twenty-five hundred dollars. If the Assessor had performed his duty under the law in this case and refused to accept the return until made in full conformity with its provisions, the government would have saved the expense, and the defendant the mortification of a trial where upon the face of the return an apparent fraud had been practiced, when in fact the party had returned his full income.

The Commissioner wishes to call your special attention to the subject, and respectfully to remind you that it is your duty to reject all returns of income that do not show them by items, the various sources from whence the income is derived, and where losses are claimed, a full and definite statement of the same, and in such and all other cases to proceed strictly in accordance with the law. In all cases where doubt exists as to the accuracy of the return, the party making it must be put under oath and his statement taken in writing.

You will please furnish each Assistant Assessor in your District with a copy of this circular and enjoin upon him a strict observance of its requirements.

Very respectfully,
C. DELANO, Commissioner.

Hiram Ruggles, Esq., Assessor 4th District, Carmel, Maine.

All persons in the 4th Collection District liable to make a return of Income are requested to do so in conformity to the provisions of the law as indicated in the above circular.

HIRAM RUGGLES, Assessor.

August 11th, 1869.

TEXAN POLITICS. Texans in Washington who represent the straightout Republican party of that State, charge that Gov. Hamilton and his friends have deliberately sold themselves to the Democrats of Texas.

A number of Texas officials have signed a letter, giving a condensed account of affairs in their State, and forwarded the same by mail to Gen. Butler. The object of the letter is to enlist Gen. Butler's efficient influence in behalf of their cause. The letter says:

"A State Convention of the Republican party of texas, at which twenty-one Senatorial Districts out of the thirty into which the State is divided, were fully represented, met at Houston, Texas, on the 7th of June 1869, and nominated Gen. E. J. Davis for Governor and Hon. J. W. Flanigan for Lieutenant Governor, together with a full ticket of reliable and earnest Republicans for the various offices under the proposed constitution.

A. J. Hamilton has nominated himself as an independent candidate for Governor, and a full ticket for State officers has also been proposed by a clique of of "Conservatives" to run with him upon what they term the "People's ticket." This "People's" ticket is, supported only by the Democracy of Texas and a few Johnson office holders now in office in this state. No respectable number of Conservative Republicans even indorse the the Hamilton movement, but as the name they have given the ticket clearly indicates its character, we may plainly say that the ultimate end that will be accomplished by the election of Hamilton will be a triumph for the old Democratic party of Texas.

Impressed with this belief, we deem it necessary to make a vigorous and effective campaign in favor of the regular nominees of the Republican party of Texas.

The wealth of the State is opposed to the Republican party and its candidates, and the opposition, headed by Hamilton, can command what money it requires for electioneering purposes. There are in Texas sixty-five thousand voters will vote the Republican ticket, provided proper means are used to organize the party and bring them to the polls in the coming election."

The letter is signed by Lewis G Brown, Collector of Internal Revenue 2d District, Texas; Thomas Cearnoy, Collector, port of Corpus Christi, J. A. Henderson, Assessor 2d District, Texas; J. K. McCreary, Collector port Indianola; Wm. B. Pucker, U.S. Marshal Eastern District, Texas; F. W. Glenn, Collector Internal Revenue, 1st District, and James A. McKee, Postmaster of Galveston.

A Maine Watering Place—Sebec Lake.

To the Editor of the Daily Whig:

A visit to one of Maine's prettiest watering places is worthy of chronicle. In fact, the romantic summer resorts of Maine are too little known, even by her own inhabitants. Why should we take the trouble, time and expense, to wander away after Saratogas and Newports abroad, when we have Saratogas, Newports, and even Switzerland at home?

During the present week I have seen with my own eyes, and enjoyed with my own senses, Sebec Lake, which hangs a sparkling gem among the Switzerlands, half way between Bangor and Moosehead, distant about thirty-five miles—a half day's drive—from either place.

This charming sheet of water is twelve miles long and about six wide, at its broadest part. Its attractions are such that, as a natural consequence, the facilities for visiting it have been largely increased within a year or two past.

A commodious side-wheel steamer, the "Rippling Wave," has been placed upon it by Capt A. G. Crockett, who makes one and two trips a day for the accommodation of visitors, at the low fare of forty cents per passage, from both Sebec and Dover landings. Strangers will find in Capt Crockett a pleasant and accommodating gentleman.

The boat will land you among the mountains at the head of the lake, where a hotel, built a few years since, invites the health or pleasure-seeker to comfortable bed and board, and at cheaper than ordinary city rates. The house is kept, this season, by Mr. E. W. Bailey, of Dover, who, with his excellent lady and capable assistants, entertains his guests in the best of style, especially providing that they do not go away hungry. Among the daily items of table fare are several which, in par excellence, the dusty city cannot produce, namely, luscious, ripe, sound blueberries, in abundance, from the mountain, and fresh pickerel, perch and salmon trout in abundance from the lake. Mr. Bailey intends to entertain his company and satisfy all reasonable persons whether he makes or breaks—dollars and cents.

Outside the hotel, in the grove near by, are tents and wigwams, occupied by parties and families who seem happy to trade in their squatted sovereignty, rights and enjoyments.

At the shore are boats to let for sailing or fishing, which, together with berrying, affords ample recreation.

To all those who are half sick and sighing for health, we say, try the Saratoga of Maine, so accessible and inexpensive. Eat berries and trout a week or two, climb their mountain cliffs, breathe the mountain air, and you will go home inspired with newness of life.

To all lovers of fine scenery, recreation, hunting, fishing, berrying or camping out, we say, try this Switzerland of Maine—come to Sebec Lake.

B. A. CHASE.

Dover, Aug. 6, 1869.

The Albany Evening Journal, speaking of the intrigues of Mr Chase, says the time has passed for "personal parties" in this country, and if it had not, Salmon P. Chase neither occupies the position nor has the individual magnetism which would enable him to create one. His devices will come to naught. He has destroyed a brilliant reputation, betrayed those to whom he is indebted for the honors and emoluments of office, falsified the professions of a life time, dragged his judicial ermine in the mire, and —like others who were ruined by the same mania for the White House—he will go down to the grave, cursing fortune and bewailing his own blunders.

According to our latest advices from Alabama, unofficial returns indicate that the following gentlemen have been elected to Congress from that State:

1st District—Alfred E. Buck, Rep., of Mobile.

IId District—Charles W. Buckley, Rep., of Montgomery.

IIId District—Robert S. Heflin, Rep., of Randolph.

IVth District—Charles Hayes, Rep., of Greene.

Vth District—[illegible]Dox, Democrat.

VIth District—[illegible]Sherrod, Democrat.

BUSINESS NOTICES.

The Independent Insurance Company of Boston is well named, for they are independent enough to manage their own business; make their own rates, pay their losses on the basis of honor, make a good dividend to Stockholders, and accumulate a good round surplus in addition to their $300,000 capital, without joining the blood sucking combination called the "National Board of Fire Underwriters."

Dissolution of Copartnership.

THE Copartnership heretofore existing under the style of HIGGINS & WEBB, is this day dissolved by mutual consent.

JEFFERSON HIGGINS.
LESTER WEBB.

I take this opportunity to thank the public for their liberal patronage, and recommend the same be extended to my former partner, Mr. L. Webb, who will carry on the business at the old stand, and where work will be done fully equal to the reputation enjoyed by the old firm.

THE SHADOW OF FATE.

He drew back, and after a moment's hesitation [illegible] I turned to Mrs. Herbert.

'We [illegible] in time for the [illegible] train,' I remarked.

'When [illegible] we reach New York?' she asked with feverish impatience.

'We [illegible] day's journey.'

'So long!' she murmured; 'so long!'

Silence fell upon us.

Time and the coach rolled on rapidly. The road [illegible] rugged, and as evening approached the driver's voice grew louder in expostulation with the horses. Our speed gradually became slower, and, on my looking out to ascertain the reason, my companion informed me we were ascending a high hill. The sharp cracks of the whip [illegible] themselves among the surrounding [illegible], the wheels creaked, the horses [illegible], the driver encouraged. The summit was reached, and we commenced the descent. The heavy coach now rolled on with hardly an effort from the horses. Relieved of the [illegible], they became capricious [illegible] way, and it required [illegible] to prevent their [illegible] about to [illegible] of our descent, when [illegible] lurch, the coach overturned.

* * * * *

When I [illegible] I heard the driver [illegible] inquiring if I was hurt.

'No, [illegible] calling out 'where [illegible] Mrs. Herbert?'

'Safe,' [illegible]

'Where [illegible]

'They've [illegible] the harness before I'd time to [illegible] and stop 'em, and the [illegible] two miles from here. You [illegible] walk, [illegible] as there'll not be [illegible]

'Let us [illegible] Mrs. Herbert, overhearing [illegible] 'The sun is sinking [illegible] night before we [illegible]

'Do not [illegible] I am full of courage. I am [illegible] that the murderer of [illegible] discovered. Something [illegible] Last night I dreamed [illegible] vividly—that George [illegible] saying, 'Follow me!' [illegible] my dream I arose and went [illegible] until we came to what [illegible] house. 'Enter; [illegible] and I was about to [illegible]

In the d[illegible] I [illegible] see her eyes were full of [illegible]

'It was so vivid,' [illegible] shuddering with [illegible] 'O George, my [illegible] husband; my love my life [illegible] assassin, yes, [illegible] before he is discovered.'

The [illegible] striding ahead with [illegible] merry laughter, [illegible] the silent woods.

'Who is that man?' asked Mrs. Herbert, suddenly.

'I don't know, [illegible] evidently a light-hearted [illegible] Calm yourself, [illegible] not give way to [illegible] Everything possible [illegible] George's assassin; but I must [illegible] that I fear [illegible] mystery in which the [illegible] impenetrable.'

She did not reply, [illegible] buried in reflection.

A half hour [illegible] the inn, a small [illegible] picturesque [illegible] with ivy, and surmounted with [illegible] in which hung a bell. [illegible] the house—the landlord [illegible]—were at the [illegible] our arrival. Our driver hail[illegible] came forward, saying he exp[illegible] horses dash past.

'Supper [illegible] the way into the [illegible]—your wife, sir?'

'No.'

'Perhaps [illegible] a cup of tea? Your [illegible]

'Not my nie[illegible]

'Perhaps,' [illegible] with a touch of malic[illegible] satisfy curiosity—perhaps [illegible] mother would like some[illegible] warm?'

'Bring us a [illegible] quick about it,' said [illegible]

The voice of the [illegible] kitchen, was heard calling [illegible] to eat. The landlord [illegible] while the daughter, a [illegible] removed Mrs. H[illegible] shawl and ministered [illegible]

The stranger [illegible] in the clear moonlight, [illegible] in contemplation [illegible]

'What is the meaning [illegible] there,' he asked, add[illegible] who was passing, [illegible]

'It was here [illegible] the landlord answered, 'and [illegible] things—principally [illegible] The rope runs down [illegible]' he added, pointing to an [illegible] the one in which were Mrs. H[illegible] self.

'Ah, yes,' said [illegible] the landlord passed on.

Mrs. Herbert [illegible] a chair.

'I have a presentiment [illegible] said,

'Why?' I asked.

'I know not, [illegible] I am strangely low spirited.'

'What has be[illegible] courage?' I said, smiling.

She shook he[illegible]

'Gone, I fear; [illegible] and I feel like one [illegible] dream. Why did the stage break down? [illegible] to this lonely place? [illegible] something strange, [illegible] in it all, as if some invisible [illegible] here.'

'Are you sup[illegible]

'No,' she replied; [illegible] death I feel as if I were [illegible] invisible beings. They [illegible] me, but seem to be [illegible] ing my steps in [illegible] murderer.'

'This is folly,' [illegible] patience. 'Let me [illegible] I don't wonder you [illegible] way; your pulse is running like a race horse. This won't do at all. [illegible] compose yourself and give [illegible] A cup of tea and a night's [illegible] good.'

'Would that [illegible] she murmured. 'Then I—'

She was interrupted by the entrance of the landlord with supper.

The meal was [illegible] over. An [illegible] large, old-fashioned clock in the [illegible] struck nine. Mrs. Herbert [illegible] low voice:

'I must speak with you [illegible] I retire.'

The room was empty. The landlord was in the kitchen [illegible] with the driver, and my companion [illegible] stage-coach was walking in the moonlight at the front of the house.

'Read the letter,' she continued.

'What letter?'

'The one I gave you this morning.'

I put my hand in my pocket.

The letter was gone!

There was a moment of [illegible]

'I have lost it!' I exclaimed.

'Lost it?'

'Yes! In the overturning of the coach it must have slipped out of my pocket. Why are you so agitated?' I asked.

'Because it contained a description of the murderer.'

'You can get another copy on your arrival in New York. It was simply sent for your information; of course you could make no practical use of it.'

She did not reply.

I regarded her earnestly.

'Why do you not speak?'

'Because—' she answered vehemently, then paused. 'But now since the description is lost, it is useless.'

'What do you mean?' I cried.

'To-morrow I will tell you. And now, good night.'

'Stop!' I said. 'I cannot let you go thus. Explain your meaning.'

'Wait till to-morrow.'

'If there is anything I should know, why not tell me at once?'

'Because—'

'Well?'

'Do not urge me, I will not speak until to-morrow.'

She turned to the landlord's daughter, who had entered, and they [illegible] the apartment together.

'You and the other gentleman will go [illegible] together,' said the landlady [illegible] my elbow 'and whenever you want [illegible]

'This way, sir,' said [illegible] way, sir [illegible] your mother [illegible]

'She is not my mother,' I said, sharply.

'Oh!' uttered the landlady, completely mystified.

I gave a [illegible] glance [illegible] solitary figure in the moonlight, and followed the woman up the stairs.

Late Commissioner of Patents.

"Mr. R. H. Eddy has made for me THIRTEEN applications, in all but ONE of which patents have been granted, and that one is now pending. Such unmistakable proof of great talent and ability on his part leads me to recommend all inventors to apply to him to procure their patents, as they may be sure of having the most faithful attention bestowed on their cases, and at very reasonable charges.
